INTRODUCTION

Human trafficking has not yet been fully unified because in some provisions and opinions each have their own views on the definition of human trafficking. The definition is too broad which can not be used as a benchmark for a behaviour that is considered as human trafficking. However, the definiton of human trafficking put forward by several groups. According to the United Nations (UN) in Law 14 on 2009 provides a definition of trafficking in persons, namely the recruitment, transportation, transfer, harboring, or receipt of persons through the use of threats of pressure or other forms of violence, or a position of vulnerability or the giving/receiving of payments or benefits in order to obtain the consent of a person having control over that other person, for the purpose of exploitation. Human trafficking have a purpose in carrying out buying and selling actions against humans as an objects of trade by an individual or group. In this contemporary era, human trafficking still exists and become one of the most dangerous crimes. With that condition, people should be aware about form of human trafficking that happen in real life for the safety own. In that case, human trafficking is an act of violation of human rights because the person who trades in human beings has taken away a person’s freedom in living their life in order to do exploitation of human.

Aranowitz (2009) also explain about Human trafficking can be viewed as process rather than a single offense. Thus, to get the victim, the human trafficker will take recruitment to the victim. In addition, the process of human trafficking have a stage start from the process of recruiting and the process of selling victims. There is two types in the process of recruiting victims of human trafficking. First is do direct kidnapping to the victims, second is buy the victim from their family. The recruitment of victims will not consider whether they are women, men, children, teenagers, or adults. Furthermore, after recruiting, the victim will be send into the brothel house. While the victim arrive into the brothel house, the pimp will sell them to the customers who need humans as their personal slaves. In that case, the impact of human trafficking to a person who become a victim of human trafficking will get exploitation from the person as the exploiter. The exploitation has a purposed to take advantage from the victim that cause them got disadvantage from exploitation itself (Hill 1993). The victim who get exploitation will experiences to do forced labor such as work in prostitution (Aranowitz 2009). Human trafficking has the form and different characteristics, where in general human trafficking has elements of exploitation, coercion, and slavery. In addition, prostitution is also an element in human trafficking. Boggs (1996) say that unlike the novel and poem, film communicates directly, not through abstract symbols like words on a page but through concrete images and sounds. With that condition, can be explain that film focuses on how a narrative that was originally in the form of writing is told through moving images and sound that gives an sound effect for give a nuisance depending on how and what kind the situation based on the script about the stories.

In the filmmaking also provide elements of visual art, such as line, shape, mass, volume, and texture (Boggs 1996). In addition, filmmaking must have them in order to make visual of moving images which shows a shape, mass, and texture as part of a story along with volume as the sound that emerges from the film itself such and background sound and the communication between one or two people. In the making of film consist important aspects of film that have important role that have purposed to make the film show some stories in detail and worth to watch. First is the aspects of narrative and second is aspects of cinematography.

First, narrative aspects of film focuses on making characters and characterizations which can bring the storyline in film. The characters can be anything and anyone, whether they be humans, animals, to other living or objects that have a purpose to describe a physique of character (Boggs 1996). Thus, the characterizations is used for developing attitudes and behavior towards characters to look more alive. With the attitude and behavior from characterization, The characters who have the characterization could show an emotion to show the situation of the story such as body gestures, facial expressions, and speech act. The narrative aspect also show the point of view in film. The using of point of view in film is very important to show how the film is tell, whether it is a first person that focus on how one character show what they see in a film or a third person that show the story in the film through the eyes of narrator or camera. Another narrative aspects is how the plot of the story shown and the setting of the location story in order to giving a visual event.
Second, the aspects of cinematography on film is used for how the story show in a visual on moving image (Heiderich 2020). The images that are taken will form a narrative of stories. Cinematography needed to consider which parts need focus and attention for making a good narrative picture arrangement. Cinematography has important technical elements of shot camera in filmmaking:
1. Extreme Long Shot: used to show subjects of relatively massive scale.
2. Long Shot: used to show subject for reflects an emotional from distance.
3. Medium Long Shot: used to show informative event and show emotionally neutral.
4. Medium Shot: used to show characters head to shoulders, and show how conversation happen
5. Close up: used to show expressions and emotions of an character more visible.
6. Extreme close up: used to amplifying emotional intensity.

Below is the type of shot camera in order to giving information about the scenes that been filming and capturing by camera. The using of cinematography aspects on film could make the story look alive and the audience will see the condition of the stories such as how to show some interaction between one character to another character or groups, how the condition of the crowded streets, how to show emotion from character, etc.

The using of aspects on the film such as narrative aspects and cinematography aspects for analysis film found on how the characters bring the stories on the film and how the camera take the shot of images in a purposes to show the visual of the story.
